GRADUATING DAY.

INTERESTING EXERCISES AT THE CHAUTAUQUA.

SAM JONES TO-MORROW.

A Ghost Show May be Given on the Evening of the Fourth of July.

The Chautauqua has taken on a gala appearance today. This is commencement day and the graduates and their friends were out in large numbers.

The normal classes were conducted as usual this morning by Rev. Lenig and Mrs. Steele, the former taking for his subject, "The Land of Palestine." This afternoon at 2:30 the recognition services were begun by Rev. Lenig. The address of the occasion was made by Rev. J. S. Myers of the Christian church. Gov. Stone was unable to be present to deliver the diplomas and his place was filled by Rev. Myers. Should the governor arrive on the early evening train he will make a short address.

The exercises continued until late into the afternoon and were highly interesting. The hall was decorated with banners, and branches of the oak. The Sedalia Military band discoursed excellent music and added much impressiveness to the formal programme which is always given on recognition day. Those who received diplomas to-day are as follows:

Mrs. Jennie E. Brown, Dresden; C. C. Clay and wife, Sedalia; Mrs. Ella Conway, Lamont; Herbert M. Flanders and wife, Sedalia; Mrs. Martha J. Locke, Malta Bend; Miss Mary M. Shultz, Dresden; Miss E. F. Snoddy, Warrensburg; Miss Fannie H. Taylor, Marshall; Mrs. Mary B. Tobin, Malta Bend; Mrs. Helen M. Chaney, Sedalia, and Miss Virginia L. Ritchey, whose address was not known.

Miss Anna Belle Taylor, of Marshall, in charge of the C. L. S. C. supplies, stated that Miss Ritchey, who was not present, had received the greatest distinction of the graduates, her diploma having nine seals, making her a member of the Order of the White Seal and of the League of the Round Table.

At the round table meeting this afternoon the question of giving a ghost show on the evening of July 4th will be decided. This is a distinctive feature of the Chautauqua and is highly original and entertaining. Rev. Lenig will superintend the production if the show is given.

This evening's programme will consist of a grand concert by the Schumann quartette which will occupy the entire time. These singers have taken the attendants by storm.

After the evening exercises, about 100 Chautauquans and friends will adjourn to Sicher's hotel where an informal banquet will take place. Rev. Lenig will preside as toast-masters. Short addresses, songs and recitations will be the order of the evening.

The great and unrivalled Rev. Sam Jones will deliver his famous "Get There" at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. He talks without tear or favor and the unlucky individual who is made to feel his sarcasm will never forget it. There will be no change in the price of admission and none should fail to attend.

"I am heartily in favor of a natatorium," said Mr. J. B. Quigley today, "and am glad that the DEMOCRAT is agitating the matter. I think that Association park offers great inducements for a 'Nat.' The old agricultural hall could be utilized to good advantage for the purpose. The water works company will agree to furnish the water at 40 per cent less than the actual cost of pumping."

Official Paper of the City of Sedalia.It would be a misfortune to stop the extension of our street railway system.

THE fourth of July will bring Sedalia a big crowd of visitors, but Sedalia knows how to entertain them.

THIS country has been through some pretty severe panics, and it is not at all likely that there is anything worse in the box than we have seen heretofore.

THIS is not a good year for Chautauqua assemblies. People argue that they can attend a Chautauqua any year, but a World's fair is not always within their reach.

GOVERNOR ALTGELD says he doesn't care for criticism. He doesn't seem to care for decency, the good name of his state, the security of society, peace or good order either.

ALL the talk about an income tax is stuff and nonsense. The "powers that be" would levy a poll-tax if the condition of the treasury absolutely demanded it, but an income tax is not even among the possibilities.

FROM the Advertiser's account of the meeting to arrange for a post-office primary at Fayette, the whole thing was a howling farce. It was looked upon as tending to disorganize the party and few democrats attended the meeting.

SEDLIA wants her street railway extended. It is a matter in which the great majority of the people are interested. It means work for the laboring man, comfort and convenience for the citizen and a splendid advertisement of the town.

THERE is nothing in the material condition of this country to warrant the present monetary stringency. It has been brought about deliberately to influence the action of congress, and the power which was strong enough to create the stringency is strong enough to prevent a panic.

THE DEMOCRAT feels warranted in assuring its readers that there is no immediate danger of an over-supply of money in this country. The goldbugs have succeeded in checking "production," and for awhile, at least, most men will be able to take care of all the money they get in the course of business.

WE democrats and republicans were all wrong last fall when we declared that the tariff was the all important question. Just now people talk "finance" to the utter neglect of "protection," and even the great champion of the Starry-Eyed Goddess has decided to call an extra session of congress to consider another question.

"THE mines, the mills and the smelters of Colorado are to be shut down immediately." Thus an industry which has given employment to thousands of men and upon which is dependent the prosperity of millions of human beings, is crushed at the dictation of those misguided manipulators of finance who fear money will become too plentiful.

ALREADY it is proposed that the British government shall recompense the Indian bankers for the loss they will sustain on their silver reserve by reason of the suspension of silver coinage. But who is going to recompense the debtor for the loss he sustains by reason of the appreciation in the value of the money with which he must pay his debts?

A DISPATCH from New York states that rumors are afloat regarding a proposed combination between the Chicago and Alton and the Missouri Pacific railways. It is alleged that some of the C. &amp; A. people will be placed in the Missouri Pacific directory and a close alliance formed. The two roads are among the strongest in the west and only to a limited extent competitors. The deal, if made, will stir up some of the competing lines to make important extensions.

A TELEGRAM from Pittsburg, Kansas, says the indications are that "the production of commercial coal will be stopped even if it is necessary to use force." This is worse than pure rot for it borders upon anarchy. That a gang of men to accomplish their own purpose shall by force compel other men to stop working for an employer with whom they have no controversy, is a crime that will not be permitted. However just may be the cause of the striking miners, they have no right to use force to compel men to quit work when they are not parties to the dispute.

IT is just as well to look things squarely in the face, and the free silver men had as well understand now as later that the whole influence of the federal administration is enlisted in the work of striking silver from our monetary system and fixing the single gold standard as the policy of this country. The republican party alone could never have accomplished this, but reinforced and aided by a democratic administration, Mr. Sherman will this winter round up his life work and accomplish the final result for which he has labored so long. What the future will be, no man can tell.

JUST remember the steps in the demonetization of silver in this country: First, an immense national debt payable in legal tender—that is, gold, silver or paper money. Then the terms were changed and the debt made payable in coin. The next step was to secretly and without debate demonetize silver, thus making the enormous debt payable in gold alone. The debt could only be canceled with the product of labor; but with this debt hanging over the country the constant and unvarying policy has been to depreciate the price of our staple productions and enhance the value of the gold dollar. And this policy has eventuated in a condition such that the shipping of a few million dollars' worth of gold to Europe brings on a panic in the United States.

ELECTRIC RAILWAYS. The subject of electric railways is one which is well worth the attention of the business men who are interested in the material development of the country.

In the opinion of many close observers these roads solve the problem of short-line railways in this country, and if so will aid materially in bringing the great trunk line railways within reach of communities that now derive little benefit from them.

The business men of Linn, Mo., and the farmers in that section, have organized a company to build a standard gauge electric railway from Linn to a point on the Missouri Pacific near the mouth of the Osage river.

Mr. George J. Gove, president of the new company, has spent some time in investigating the matter, has had surveys made and received estimates for building and equipping the line.

The road is eleven miles long and runs through rather a rough country, but the cost of the road, including bridges, switches and station houses, only amounts to $70,000.

Mr. Gove says his company is offered a 500-horse-power motor car and generator—Logan battery system—for about $10,000.

The Logan battery, he says, is guaranteed to run this 500-horse-power motor 200 miles without recharging. The company offering to furnish the motor car guarantees it for twelve months.

President Gove was much encouraged at the prospect for the building of the road and thinks he and his associates have solved the problem of cheap transportation to the Missouri Pacific.

If this road is a success other communities will be encouraged to take similar action and short electric roads will become common in Missouri.

SCALLY SWINDLED.*He Buys Insect Powder, Only to Find That It Is Bran.

Officer John Scally, who is known as "a holy terror" to postal clerks, was on the warpath to-day, and woe be unto the individual who was peddling alleged "insect powder" in East Sedalia yesterday if he falls into the hands of the aforesaid Scally.

The name of the individual is not known, but he is said to be a pal of the two tourists who attempted to relieve Peter Pehl of his diamond pin on Wednesday, as previously chronicled.

The crook was almost broke, it appears, and with his last fifteen cents he determined to make a raise. Ten cents of the total sum were expended in purchasing a peck of ordinary bran at Rembaugh's mill, and the remaining five cents were utilized in purchasing small envelopes.

This is the layout that comprised the tourist's stock in trade, and with it he started for East Sedalia to make a raise. About two tablespoonsfuls of the bran was placed in each envelope, and then the young man made a from-house-to-house canvass, selling what he alleged to be "insect powder," for the utter extermination of ants, cock roaches, etc.

Among those who purchased was a member of Mr. Scally's family, and when he returned to supper last night he was informed that insects would be a thing of the past in that entire neighborhood within the next twenty-four hours.

Mr. Scally examined the purchase, and as he had received certain pointers down town as to the operations of the crook, it did not take him long to realize that he had been swindled. And this is the reason he is searching for the pedler today with a stuffed club.

SHE WANTS $5000.

Filing of a Sensational Suit for Breach of Promise of Marriage.

A suit that gives promise of furnishing a number of sensational developments when taken up for trial was filed in the office of Circuit Clerk Thomas A. Fowler late yesterday afternoon.

The plaintiff is Miss Lina Mathews, daughter of Silas Mathews, a prominent farmer of the Beaman neighborhood, and the defendant is Louie Rast, fireman on a Missouri Pacific switch engine in the yards here.

The petition is very brief and was drawn up by Hon. W. D. Steele, attorney for Miss Mathews. It alleges that on the 10th day of June, 1892, defendant asked plaintiff to become his wife, and after mature deliberation she consented and set about making preparations for the ceremony.

But man is mighty "onsartin," it appears, for Miss Mathews alleges further along in the petition that after a time Mr. Rast grew cool toward her and finally ceased his visits entirely. She entreated him to fulfill his promise, but all to no purpose, and she now brings suit for $5,000 damages because of Louie having trifled with her affections.

There are two sides to every story, of course, and it is said that Mr. Rast's side of the story will be rich, rare and racy when it is presented in the circuit court.

PROSPECT STREET RAILWAY.

Proposition for Paving the Street as a Compromise Measure.

To the Editor of the DEMOCRAT:

In order to test the generosity, the sincerity and the public spirit of the promoters of the aforesaid project, we will submit for their consideration the following:

Let Judge Metzker agree to pave his railway track and three feet on either side of the same, and then let all the property holders and advocates of the railway between the Pacific railroad and Third street join us in paving the remainder of the street, and we consent on our part to withdraw our opposition. On the other hand, if the street railway be laid as it is in most other parts of the city the street will be virtually ruined as a residence street. The ties are laid on top of the ground, the ends are projecting and unsightly, the street is narrow, passers on it are driven into the gutters, and into mud up to their ankles and axles.

I have talked to several of the opposers of the railway scheme and so far they are unanimous in favor of this proposition. Now let the patriots and enterprising citizens on the other side walk up and illustrate their public spirit and unselfishness.

Respectfully,

A. H. CONKWRIGHT.
P. S.—Apropos of the Gazette's reporter which undertakes to defend "its assertions" permit me to say that I never bandy words with a person or thing that claims to be neither male nor female; and again, it is a fundamental principle in duelling, even newspaper duelling, "never to shoot down hill if you can help it."

Was It a Robbery?

The Jericco Bank Officials Taken in Custody by Officers. The neighbors of B. L. Brasier, of Jericco, Cedar county, were aroused from their slumbers at an early hour Wednesday morning by Mrs. Brasier. She told them that the bank of which Mr. Brasier is cashier, was being robbed.

Immediately a posse was formed, who, with Mr. Brasier, soon had the bank surrounded. Upon entering it was found that the outside door of the vault was open and a pile of papers on the office floor was on fire, but no robbers were in sight.

Mr. Brasier said at about 3 o'clock he had been awakened by loud knocking at his door. Upon opening the door two revolvers were poked into his face. Two masked men ordered him to go with them to the bank, which he did. There they met two other members of the band, who ordered Mr. Brasier to open the vault. He said he was unable to do anything with the safe, as it was operated by a time lock.

Mr. Brasier said the two robbers who had brought him to the bank, escorted him back to his home with instructions to keep quiet or they would return and kill him. When Mr. Brasier thought the coast clear he lowered his wife to the ground from a back window, and she soon had the neighborhood aroused, as already stated, yesterday the depositors requested Mr. Brasier to open the safe and ascertain what had been taken by the robbers. This he refused to do, stating that he did not wish to make any examination until the return of A. A. Pyle, the bank's president, who was then and nearly all that day away from Jersey.

Creditors became suspicious that the robbery story was only a ruse to cover some shortage of the bank and before night the officers of the bank were all under arrest charged with fraud. Attorneys have been employed at Lamar to prosecute.

DOWN IN TEXAS.

Mayor Stevens Talks of the Outlook and Condition of That State.

Mayor E. W. Stevens who has just returned from a business trip to Texas, spending most of the time at San Antonio, was asked to-day concerning the condition of that state and the outlook for renewed business activity.

"Texas at present is like all the states of the union," said he. "There is a business stagnation resulting from the financial stringency. The banks are filled with money, but are making few loans, preferring rather to wait until the crisis has passed. The crops throughout the state are in a flourishing condition, Texas having been unusually favored this year with plenty of rain in most sections. Early in the spring, the drought caused thousands of cattle to be shipped into the Indian territory where better grass could be secured. Those who did so are now regretting the useless expense, as they have plenty of grass at home.

"The horse and mule markets throughout the country are dull at present. Owing to new and easier methods of transportation the demand for mules and horses is becoming less and less. Bicycles in Texas are the rage at present. Many young men instead of buying driving horses, have purchased bicycles. A number of years ago when I went to San Antonio there were not more than half a dozen bicycles in the city. I would not be overestimating to say that at the present time there are a thousand."

Floors the Fly.

Sheriff Porter to-day received a letter from B. H. Van Raub, of Van Raub, Texas, in which he enclosed a Sedalia dispatch clipped from the Globe-Democrat, chronicling the appearance of the "horn fly" in Pettis county, and gave a receipt that he guarantees will annihilate the pest. Whenever cattle are annoyed by the fly, says Mr. Van Raub, rub whale oil or rancid fish on the hair of the animal, and also on the skin at the base of the horn, and immediately afterwards the fly will seek a new field of operations.

Going to Resign.

George H. Wright, a popular clerk in the office of Superintendent L. D. Hopkins, will resign his position on August 1st to engage in the agent's furnishing goods business with Tim Dunnigan in the room recently vacated by the Arnold sisters in the Ilgenfritz block. Sedalia has no more popular young men than Tim and George, and that they will do a thriving business is almost all most assured.

SMALLPOX IN GREAT BRITAIN.
Disbelief in and Opposition to Vaccination by Influential People.

About twenty years ago there was a severe epidemic of smallpox in England and America. In recent months the disease has been causing alarm in many parts of England and Scotland. Up to the middle of April it was prevailing—though in general the cases are of a mild type—in about fifty localities, including Liverpool, Manchester, Edinburgh and Glasgow. In the last city thirty-four new cases occurred within ten days previous to the report. No newly improvised hospitals can be expected to stay the spread of the disease. England contends with the pest at a disadvantage. Many persons of influence do not believe in vaccination, write against it and oppose it in every way they can. The opposition has grown greatly during the long absence of the epidemic. The vaccination laws are practically in suspense. In some districts many children have never been vaccinated. Even where the letter of the law has been complied with vaccination has been done in a very lax and untrustworthy way, and there has been an almost entire absence of revaccination. Again, the large class of tramps and the many filthy lodging-houses into which they crowd at night greatly aid in the spread of the disease. If the epidemic reaches this country, we shall not expect it to spread very extensively, for the laws respecting vaccination are intelligently carried out. Still, the large immigrant population will need looking after and lodging-houses will need rigid inspection. Revaccination should be properly attended to. The authorities also should properly provide means for the isolation of patients.

A DOMESTIC EPISODE.*Didn't Think Dropping a Flat-Iron on Her Foot Would Hurt It.

"I called," said the lady patient, looking around in a mysterious manner, "to consult you, doctor, about my foot."

"Yes?" said the doctor, stifling a yawn and looking at his watch. "Have you injured it in any way?"

"Oh, no; but it pains constantly, and I can hardly get my shoe on."

"Too small?" suggested the doctor, glancing cautiously in the direction of his patient's feet, which were invisible.

"No, doctor," my shoes are twice too large for me."

"Perhaps that is the trouble?" suggested the doctor, looking as if he were trying to believe it.

"It is only one foot that is affected."

"Perhaps you had better see a chiropractor," said the doctor.

"Oh, no, indeed; it's much more serious than that. I can't imagine what it is, but it is really very painful."

"And you say you have not injured it, madame?"

"Never. You see, I've not been in a railroad accident or a runaway, or been run over by an electric car, or anything. I did drop a flat-iron on it one day when I was ironing, but it couldn't have been that—could it?"

"Well, I never," said the doctor, as he wrote out a prescription in Latin for mustard liniment; "of all sad things of life, a flat-iron is the saddest, and the most fatal."

He Shaved for Greece.

In the old days of Bangor there was a negro barber named Hanson, who was full of patriotism and love of liberty, and who warmly espoused the cause of the Greeks in their struggle with Turkey. His enthusiasm at last grew to such a pitch that he announced that he would devote a day to shaving for the benefit of the Greeks. The idea took, and customers flocked in by scores. But when they offered payment the barber declined. He had given notice that he would shave for the benefit of the Greeks, he said, and "d'yer s'pose I will take pay when I shave for de benefit of de Greeks?" So he shaved all day for nothing, and probably felt comforted afterward with the thought that he had done something handsome in aid of the Greeks.

Another New Thing in Clocks.

The latest wrinkles in timepieces are a watch that talks and a clock that marks the time by the consumption of a candle that illuminates its translucent dial. The watch, which is ingenious, but intricate, announces the hours and quarters in a voice given it by a phonographic attachment. It is the latest invention of a Swiss named Casimir Livau. The clock is for night use. The dial can be turned by hand, and before going to bed the hand is placed opposite the hour of retiring. As the candle burns lower and lower it pulls the hand on the dial mechanically, which, illuminated in the rear by the burning light, shows the hour till daybreak.

How Town Names Originate.

The origin of some of the town names in Maine is odd enough. For instance, an old settler tells us that the township north of Howland, in the Penobscot valley, came by its name in this wise: One of the first settlers was named MacIntosh. He settled on the south bank of the Piscataquis river, and had a splendid opening which was known to the river raftsmen and voyagers as "Mac's field." When the town was named this designation was retained, though scarcely recognizable as it is now spelled "Maxfield."

A Phosphorescent Mountain.

The Luchsberg is a singular freak of nature in the shape of a disintegrated and phosphorescent mountain, near Alexandersbad, Germany. Its glowing appearance is due to the peculiar composition of rocks of which it is formed and the effect of sunlight on them.

Damage by Grasshoppers.

Grasshoppers are doing much damage to the growing wheat and corn crops along the river. Mr. Henry Walters, above town, reports his wheat and corn greatly damaged by these pests. Mr. John White, of Grasshopper Island, states that much of his growing corn has been devoured by these Kansas emigrants. Millions of these insects are also seen in meadows throughout this section.—Rocheport Commercial.

HATS FOR THE LADIES

DISTINGUISHING MARKS OF THE SUMMER CROP.

The Leghorn is in Vogue and Will Wrestle for Supremacy with the Smart Sailor Article—The Typical Hat—Notes of the Modes.

Leghorn in Vogue.

While leghorn hats have been fashionable for a number of years they have never had as great vogue given them as is noted this summer. Our grandmothers thought a great deal of a fine leghorn, and one was shaped and bleached and made over and re-trimmed all of a lifetime, while for a bride nothing was quite so fine as a leghorn bonnet trimmed with white roses. Fineness in the quality of the leghorn is to-day again counted of importance, for the brim must be beat to suit the face, and the hat itself must be made thoroughly a picture one.

In the illustration is a leghorn hat that will be worn during the summer in the country, or for driving. The hat has the usual wide brim and low square crown, and at the back it is bent up in curves to permit the hair to come below it, each indentation being caught by a pink rose. In front under the brim, and quite close to the head, is a stiff band of green velvet, and on this is arranged a band of pink roses, that are only visible when the face is raised, as the brim is allowed to really form a shade. The outside decoration consists of high bows of pink guaze ribbon; a roll of this ribbon is about the crown, and ties of it are at the side, and may or may not be worn looped under the chin, as is most becoming. Usually, however, they are looped as in the picture, because then a deliciously quaint air is given, and one can almost imagine one's self one's own grandmother in those days when grandpapa came a-walking.

Wreaths of flowers outside the leghorn hats are liked, especially when the crown is removed, and this, by-the-by, is often done. Very often the place where the crown ought to be is covered by twisted grass or foliage, and then the flowers come about it.

May Wear Black at a Wedding.

The wearing of black at a wedding was formerly considered so ominous of evil that people in mourning either staid away from the ceremony or put off the somber habiliments for the occasion. The appearance of an innocent black pin has been known to create dismay among the wedding guests. The prejudice has wholly disappeared among intelligent people. Black toilettes are worn at the ceremony and nobody ever thinks of any ill luck to the bride on that account. Brides themselves do not wear black, but recently a very well-known society girl, who was in mourning for a near relative, wore a wedding and traveling costume of black and white-striped silk and satin. She wore a cap of black satin and lace and a black hat decorated with black feathers and white lace. Six horse shoes covered with white roses, a quart of rice and numberless superannuated slippers tied with pink ribbon were thrown after the carriage as she left her home, so, as one superstition is as good as another, the bride is likely, notwithstanding her toilet, to have as happy a life as is allotted to mortals in general.

A NEW FANCY.

The latest French hats, the brims of which require a facing, show not the softening velvet, but instead the glistening satin. This is a most decided novelty, as satin, except in the form of ribbon bows, has not been seen on hats or bonnets for a long time. A typical summer-time hat which shows such a facing is illustrated. The hat has a low round crown of pale green and a broad brim of deep lavender chip. The brim is under-faced with green satin, and then is turned up to form what seems like a three-cornered shape, each corner being caught with a stiff bunch of purple violets. Just in front, where the square look is given, there is a bow of green satin ribbon, and in the centre of it a bunch of violets with their green leaves, of course, such a hat would be trying, but is essentially picturesque, and worn with the Empire coat, with its wide revers, a most picturesque effect would be obtained. In facing a hat with satin great care must be exercised in cutting the satin well, and to commit a blunder it would be quite correct to say it must be straight on the bias. A black Neapolitan hat faced with white satin has black satin bows and white roses for its trimming, and as can be imagined, what the good saleswoman would call "decidedly stylish," and after all that is the greatest desideratum in a woman's hat.

Wedding Presents.

Wedding presents are becoming such a serious fact in these modern times, there are so many duplicates and so many of the gifts are so utterly useless to the recipients that the suggestion of a heartless cynic that a subscription list should be sent around to the friends of the two families, and that each donor should put down what he was disposed to give, strikes one as being by no means a bad notion.

Then the young people could consult together, buy something that they really liked and wanted and write and thank the donors for the especial article. Other complications in connection with this matter have arisen which there seems to be some difficulty in settling. Supposing the engagement is broken off at the last moment and the wedding never takes place. You will naturally say all the presents would be promptly returned. Doubtless that would be the proper course, but I have heard of instances where they never were returned, and nobody knows what became of them.

It reminds one of the story of Miss Cynthia P. Pottleplate, a popular American belle, who was frequently being engaged to be married, ever breaking off the engagement at the last moment, and always receiving a vast number of presents, which, by the way, she never returned. When she eventually was comfortably settled she was fond of telling the story herself, and generally concluded with saying, "And so you see when at last I met some one I right well liked I was able to begin housekeeping in real good style." —Graphic.

The Double-Skirted Dress.

Double-skirted dresses of silk gauze, silk veiling or etamine are bordered with rows of ribbon, jet gimp or white or corn guipure, laid on flat. The round waists have flaring bretelles similarly finished. The close coat sleeve is finished with rows of the trimming to the elbow, where it is met by a full balloon puff of the dress fabric. Many of the beautiful Marie Antoinette transparents in black, figured with small but brilliant flowers, are made up over changeable taffeta silk and trimmed with shirred or plaited ruches in silks that repeat the colors of the blossoms and leaves.

The Sailor Hat of To-day.

The sailor hat as we knew him was decidedly comfortable, extremely useful and very becoming, in some cases. When he wasn't he was worn because of his other good qualities. He appeared in straw and in tarpaulin, and in the last he was supposed to be dedicated solely and exclusively to wear on a yacht, where the salt sea could fly up on him and never hurt him. In this uniform form he fell in the hands of a French milliner, and the result, which is the smart sailor hat of this summer is pictured. It is the tarpaulin, or shiny black leather hat made frivolous. The crown is somewhat higher than that of last year and the brim a little narrower; about the crown is a band of petunia velvet, and quite near the front and a little to one side stands up in the most assertive manner bunches of petunias, while at the back from under the stiff brim two petunia buds peep out.

Fancy Jewelry All the Rage.

The rage for fancy jewelry is on the increase. Flower and animal forms are still highly favored. All sorts of wild flowers are chosen for lace pins, hair ornaments and small buckles; sprays of valley lilies, single blossoms of hawthorn, pimpernel, chickweed, speedwell, geranium and heather, in gold or silver set with gems. A row of daisies, alternately frosted gold with a pearl heart, or with diamond chips clustered on silver, make pretty brooches and bangles. Flowers are also combined with insects, for instance, a tiny hair brush in diamonds perched upon a twig of holly in enamel; a spider, with an opal-gray pearl of Labrador stone for his body, is clinging with his diamond-set legs to a golden leaf. The newest thing in single flowers is the bee-orchid and the narcissus. The former may have its purse-like cup covered with little sapphires, and the petals in diamonds, or vice versa. The narcissus is in plain burnished gold with a brilliant in its center, or in diamonds and topazes.

About Summer Toilette.

Among summer toilette for young girls there seems to be a decided partiality for yoke bodices with flaring epaulettes or bretelles, and pretty effects are produced with corn guipure laces and nets, or by velvet runners through bands of colored insertion, embroidered stripes alternating with those bordered with hemstitching, and also with Russian guipure with full sleeves attached, made of surah in cream white, figured with silk dots in color. Upon yokes of pink organdie, pale blue chambrey, corn batiste and plain French zephyr goods is wrought fine needlework that imitates multi-colored Persian embroideries so popular on richer gowns, the only difference being that the work is executed with fast dye cottons and not with silk floss.

THE RAILROADS.

Ed Rosson goes to work in the Missouri Pacific shops to-morrow.

"No checks cashed here." So reads a notice that Ticket Agent Berry has caused to be posted in his office at the depot.

The Union Pacific has finished reducing forces in Nebraska, having discharged 100 employees. One-fourth were operators, one-fourth train men and the rest switch and station men and clerks.

The Lincoln Times says the Sedalia, Warsaw and Southern railway is "out of sight," because of the rank weeds that are to be found on either side of the track, and extending from Sedalia to Warsaw.

The Missouri Pacific shops were closed again to-day in order to further reduce expenses.

This makes two days the boys have lost this month at the request of the company, and they are wondering what will be coming next.

Colonel Wm. H. Phelps, assistant general solicitor of the Missouri Pacific railway, left St. Louis last night with his family for his summer's vacation, which will be spent in the Puget Sound country. He will be gone two months.

RAILROADS AND THE PRESS.

W. C. Brown, General Manager of the Hannibal, Gives His Views.

W. C. Brown, of St. Joseph, general manager of the Hannibal and St. Joseph railway, delivered an address in Chicago Tuesday on "The Railroads and the Press." Among other things he said:

The interests of the railroads and those of the communities and the states they serve are identical. The prosperity of one carries with it in like degree prosperity of the other. Adversity cannot come to one without corresponding injury to the other. As the press, emancipated from the bonds with which ignorance and prejudice had encumbered it, became infinitely more potent for good, so it will be found that when its great collaborator in the work of advancement and of progress, the railroads, shall enjoy the same latitude, the same liberty and independence of action, their power for good will be immensely increased.

This time will come when the people understand more fully the true relationship which exists between themselves and the railroads, how inseparably their interests are interwoven. How soon this condition shall be brought about depends largely upon the newspapers of our country.

Trouble for the "Katy" Tramps.

There was a coterie of railroad men sitting in front of the Matthewson house last evening, says the Parsons Sun, discussing railroad matters in general, when the conversation turned to tramps. A number of interesting stories were told of the daring exploits of some tramps on the M. K. & T. road, when a well-known passenger conductor between this city and Sedalia related the following ludicrous incident: One night he was going north and his train was flagged near Hepler by a section foreman who wanted to go to Sedalia. The fellow used a lot of engine waste, and threw some of the burning waste in the middle of the track. The signal to stop was obeyed and when the train was ready to resume its journey, the attention of the conductor and crew were attracted by loud cries of "Help," "For God's sake don't start," "Let us get off," and a number of similar exclamations. Upon investigation it was found that a couple of tramps were stealing a ride on the fore trucks of the baggage car, which, it seems, had stopped right over the burning waste, and was making it pretty warm for the boys, when the train crew came to their relief.

After Fort Scott's "Joints."

The Women's Christian Temperance Union inaugurated a crusade against the joints in Fort Scott last evening. They have been urged into this course by Col. J. E. Holt, the temperance lecturer, of Illinois. At 5 o'clock last evening they went in a body to every joint they could find and ordered the proprietors to close at once. Col. Holt has been holding meetings there for a week, and he has a small army of school children drilled to march through the streets and spurn the saloons. The jointists have generally refused to close and further action on the part of the women is expected.

Sent Up for Two Years.

The jury in the case of the state against Thomas Kinkaid, for the killing of William Whitworth, at Ariel church, twenty miles north of Columbia, on April 13, 1893, brought in a verdict yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock convicting Kinkaid of murder in the second degree, and fixing his sentence at two years in the penitentiary.

RAILWAY BUILDING.

What Has Been Done in the First Half of 1893.

The semi-annual statement of the new railroad lines built in the United States, compiled by the Railroad Gazette, gives the total new mileage added to the railroad system in the first half of 1893 as 884 miles. This total is nearly 300 miles less than the new track built in the first half of 1892. As has been the case for the last four or five years the majority of the new mileage consists of short lines to meet well-denied needs, such as developing valuable mineral or other natural resources, and securing traffic to old-established cities.

The Rock Island and Missouri,

Kansas and Texas companies have each built nearly 100 miles of new road, but not one new line. The Rock Island extension, which has reached Fort Worth, is the longest line. The Missouri, Kansas and Texas is now practically completed so as to run trains into St. Louis and Houston, Tex. These are the only companies that have built over 50 miles of track, but several have built over 25 miles. Texas has built nearly 125 miles, more than any other state; Missouri is next with more than 90 miles, and Pennsylvania is close up to it with 85 miles. Other States which have built over 50 miles are West Virginia and Florida.

THAMPS, BEWARE!

The Ferguson Constabulary and Hold-Up Order Committee.

The marshal and night watchmen lately employed by the people of the suburb of Ferguson, on the Missouri Pacific near St. Louis, to guard their property, are considered among the best equipped men for their business in the country. The citizens have furnished both of them with a double-barreled shotgun, a revolver of large caliber, a regulation police club, dark lantern, whistle and handcuffs, and besides all this every citizen is a member of the law and order committee which has been organized to assist the officers in discharge of their duty.

The tramps and thieves strolling about the country will not care to pay Ferguson more than one visit.

The lumber has been bought, the railroad company donated the ground and work on the Ferguson "holdover" will
